President's Message

by Warren Murphy, President

I hope that everyone is doing well and that you have been able to return to a "somewhat" normal life. Remember to continue to check on your neighbors and especially those that are homebound. Also, remember that our neighborhood children and school buses are now out in the mornings and afternoons so we all need to be extra careful and slow down.

There was no Board of Directors meeting in August. The current restrictions regarding the use of our facilities will remain in effect. Everyone has done a good job of following the posted rules. Please continue to practice social distancing, frequent hand washing, use a face mask while inside the clubhouse, and if you are not feeling well, please stay home. I would like to ask that everyone continue to help keep the pool areas clean by picking up your trash and please close the umbrellas before you leave.

Due to all of the rain in recent weeks, it has been hard on the landscapers to keep up with the mowing. After some of the hard rains there are yards that don't drain which would result in a muddy mess if they try to mow them. If your yard does not get mowed or there is some other problem due to the mowing please call Nicole as soon as possible. A quick response from you to Nicole will result in a quicker response to the problem. Please remember to complete an ARC form BEFORE you start any projects on the outside of your home. If you have any question on whether you need ARC approval for your project please call Nicole. This is a requirement under our homeowner association rules. ARC forms are available in the clubhouse, online, and on the back of this newsletter. The office number is 407-239-3404 and our website is hoaparkviewpointe@gmail.com. Hope you are able to join us at our next Zoom meeting on Thursday, September 17 at 7:00pm.

FINANCIAL SURVIVAL TIPS FOR THE PANDEMIC

The COVID-19 pandemic has forced many people out of work and created financial problems for families struggling to survive. The Courier Journal offers some advice for staying afloat:

- Make a budget. Sit down with a piece of paper or some budget software and analyze your monthly expenses-food, housing, gasoline, and the like. Track your spending to ensure the numbers are accurate. This will give you a good idea of what you're paying for, and also what you can reduce or eliminate.
- Prioritize your bills. Generally speaking, your top priorities are food, utilities (gas, electricity, and water), shelter (rent or mortgage), and your vehicle. Pay those before you pay anything else.
- Ask for extensions. Many lenders, sympathetic to the plight of consumers, are open to delayed payment plans. Contact your landlord, mortgage company, credit card company, student loan provider, and other people and organizations you owe money to, and try to negotiate for better terms and rates.
- Cut costs and increase income. Look for sales and deals when you buy. Examine how much you spend on entertainment and look for saving strategies. Also, go through your home and look for items you can sell on Etsy or eBay to generate some extra cash.

HOW THE PANDEMIC WILL AFFECT SCHOOL SPENDING

As students prepare to head back to school, whether in person or virtually, retailers are nervous about the impact of COVID-19 on academic spending. Fortunately, a study by Deloitte reports that back-to-school shopping in 2020 in the United States is expected to be about $28.1 billion, or $529 per student-close to spending in 2019. What will students and their parents purchase?

The Deloitte study estimates that clothing purchases will drop this year compared to the previous three years. On the other hand, spending on laptops and other technology is expected to grow as students will more likely be attending classes and doing schoolwork online. Deloitte predicts a 28% increase in technology spending for K-12 students, now an $8.6 billion market. Fifty-one percent of parents plan to spend more on virtual learning tools, and 40% are planning to subscribe to an e-learning program that will supplement schoolwork.

And with an eye on safety, parents plan to spend an average of $46 per student on sanitizers, hand wipes, and similar supplies.

OLDER PEOPLE FACE MENTAL HEALTH RISKS

Social distancing during the COVID-19 pandemic is essential to maintaining your health, but isolation can have a profound impact on one's mental health. Older people (60+) especially may be vulnerable to depression, loneliness, and other problems. The Conversation website has some useful advice for not giving in to the negative effects of staying at home:

- o Plan your day. If you're not working and your home is already as clean as it's going to get, you may be tempted to just stay in bed and binge on Netflix. Resist the urge. Set up a routine to give your day some structure. Take up some hobbies to occupy your time-gardening, jigsaw puzzles, online classes, and the like. A schedule can give your otherwise empty days some meaning.

- o Stay active. Exercise, do yoga, or just walk around your home for 20 minutes at a time instead of just sitting in your chair (or on your sofa) all day. If possible and safe, take a walk or bike ride around your neighborhood, while staying socially distant, of course. Keeping your blood pumping helps your heart, but also boosts your endorphins and overall mental health.

- o Know your risk factors. The AARP Foundation has a tool called Connecvt2Affect to help you measure the impact of your social isolation. If you're at an elevated risk, seek out a therapist or other support services available in your area.

- o Get out of the house-safely. Whether you're going to the store or just taking a walk, don't take any chances. Wear a face mask and bring hand sanitizer. Stay clear of other people who aren't taking necessary precautions. A change of scenery can improve your state of mind.

- o Reach out to others. Stay in contact with your family and friends with phone calls, email, Zoom meetings, and other options. Look for opportunities to volunteer online. And don't be afraid to ask for help if you need it.

THE HISTORY OF LABOR DAY

Labor Day is a creation of the labor movement, a yearly celebration of the American worker, and a national tribute to the laborer's contribution to the social and economic achievements of the United States.

There is some uncertainty about the origins of Labor Day. Some records show that Peter J. McGuire, general secretary of the Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners and a co-founder of the American Federation of Labor, was first to suggest a day to honor those "who from rude nature have delved and carved all the grandeur we behold." Other research suggests that machinist Matthew Maguire, later the secretary of Local 344 of the International Association of Machinists in Paterson, N.J., proposed the holiday in 1882 while serving as secretary of the Central Labor Union in New York.

The first Labor Day holiday was celebrated on Tuesday, Sept. 5, 1882, in New York City, in accordance with the plans of the Central Labor Union.

In 1884, the first Monday in September was selected as the official holiday.

The first governmental recognition of Labor Day came through municipal ordinances passed in 1885 and 1886.

The state of Oregon passed the first law recognizing the Labor Day holiday on Feb. 21, 1887. Four more states—Colorado, Massachusetts, New Jersey, and New York—followed suit that same year. On June 28, 1894, Congress passed an act making the first Monday in September of each year a legal holiday in all the states, the District of Columbia, and all U.S. territories.

BURIED TREASURE

In a small village lived a hardworking farmer who owned a vast vineyard. Year after year the vineyard provided a rich harvest, and the farmer became very successful. He had three sons who were young and energetic but never bothered to work hard. As the farmer grew old, he began to worry about his sons' future.

Then he fell very ill and realized his death was fast approaching. He called the sons and told them: "Dear sons, I see my death nearing me, but before I bid goodbye to all of you, I want to share a secret. There is a treasure hidden under the fields. Dig the entire field after my death to find it."

The old farmer died. After the funeral, the sons began to dig for the treasure without leaving any part of the field untouched, but they found nothing. However, their digging of the field led to a healthy crop and resulted in huge earnings. This made the sons realize what their father meant.

Moral: Hard work always pays off. Fruits of hard work are always sweet whether or not they are in the form you expect.
